

Girlguiding Cleveland Saxon Surprise

680 Brownies, Leaders and Trefoil Guild took over Kirkleatham Hall Museum in Redcar, which is currently holding an exhibition of jewellery belonging to an Anglo-Saxon princess which was discovered locally. We called the event 'Saxon Surprise'.

Brownies dressed up as Saxon princesses, decorated pottery replicas of pendants, toured the exhibition and then bopped at the outdoor disco.

Over a fifth of Girlguiding Cleveland members attended. We received some excellent press coverage and were joined by local dignitaries.
